AURALEX ACOUSTICS KEEPS SOUND FLUID AT LIQUID MUSIC STUDIO

INDIANAPOLIS, IN, FEBRUARY 25, 2008 – Auralex Acoustics, Inc., the industry leader in innovative sound control solutions, keeps sound flowing at Nashville’s Liquid Music Studio. A personal and commercial facility, founded in 2006 by former Digidesign Production Specialist Brett Clark, Liquid Music Studio specializes in audio and post-production projects.

Several Auralex products have been installed into the space, which includes a control room and a tracking room. Auralex’s SheetBlok sound isolation barrier was used throughout the construction of the space, its pArtScience Screen6 hangs from the ceiling above the mixing station and the company’s complete SonoSuede System was used as the surface treatment.

“Auralex Acoustics was helpful from day one,” says Clark. “The company’s original room analysis really helped put the job into perspective, in terms of the amount of acoustical treatments I would need in order to get the sound I wanted. Not only does the company’s products stand up to its reputation, but the fabric choices enabled me to choose the treatments that best suited the décor I was going with for both the control room and the tracking room.”

Clark’s professional credits run the gamut, from live tracks for recording artists such as Rascal Flatts, Keith Urban, Joe Nichols and Paul Brandt; to post audio for two 30-minute specials aired on CMT Canada as well as several commercial spots for Ford Canada. He has also worked on mixing/editing projects for ForJam productions, BMG/Sony and Paul Brandt.

Liquid Music Studio offers the very best in audio equipment in terms of recording, converters, microphones and mic pre’s including a Digidesign Pro Tools HD system, and Digidesign and Apogee converters. The studio’s extensive microphone offerings include Rode, Audio-Technica, AKG, Groove Tubes, Neumann, Sennheiser, Shiny Box, Shure and CAD. Several mic pre’s are
