AURALEX ACOUSTICS HELPS DEALERS BOOST PROFITS WITH NEW 24 PIECE AUDIOTILE™ SET

INDIANAPOLIS, IN, June 22, 2006—Auralex Acoustics, Inc., the industry leader in innovative sound control solutions, is proud to announce the availability of AudioTile™ in a new 24 piece set. AudioTile absorbs echoes and other undesirable reflections though a wide range of frequencies. The new 24 piece set includes detailed step-by-step instructions on how to build seven striking designs that effectively treat one 8' by 10' foot wall or ceiling. Suggested retail price is $159.

“Since its launch in November 2005, AudioTile has been installed in many large and successful high-end installations,” says Brian Wheat, Director of Marketing for Auralex. “By packaging AudioTile in a 24 piece set at a more popular price point, we’re making this product more accessible to the home studio and small-to-midsize commercial studio owners. Customers can buy exactly the amount they need and mix and match to create unique one-of-a kind designs specific to their room requirements.”

Designed by Russ Berger for Auralex Acoustics, AudioTile’s eye-catching designs add that “wow” factor to any studio, home theater, or audio listening room. Varying thickness built into each AudioTile delivers excellent broadband absorption, while the resulting designs patterns allow a unique means of blending absorption, diffusion and reflection for optimal acoustical performance. Auralex’s proprietary Studiofoam™ formula ensures superior durability and Class B flame retardancy.

The patent-pending AudioTile is one of the offerings in the new pArtScience product line, a family of acoustical treatments designed by Russ Berger for exceptional performance with a custom look, all at an affordable price.
